TPT HONORS KINGS LEGEND LUC ROBITAILLE

On a star-studded evening in March, right between the Winter Olympics, and NHL Playoffs, Team Prime Time proudly inducted Kings legend and NHL Hall of Famer Luc Robitaille into its own prestigious Hall of Fame. Joining Luc was Kings Hall of Fame announcer, Bob Miller, Bailey and the Ice Crew in a truly memorable evening that raised over $15,000 for TPT programs. Special thanks to the LA Kings, Kings Care Foundation, Tennenbaum Capital Partners and Loeb & Loeb, LLP for your support.

CHAMPIONSHIP REMATCH TIPS OFF VARSITY GAMES HOOPS SEASON

The Varsity Games Basketball Season tipped off in exciting fashion as Hamilton HS hosted rival Fairfax HS in a rematch of last year's City Championship Game. A late fourth quarter clutch free throw by Hamilton's star shooting guard, Henry, salvaged a tie in the first of many exciting games taking place all over the city this Spring. This unique, inclusive program creates competitive teams equally comprised of two high risk populations - economically underserved youth and the special needs students they mentor - in the only high school sports league of its kind in the nation. Please join us on Championship Saturday, May 31st, at UCLA to see which team will take home the coveted title.

"I found [the Varsity Games] to be a real life changing experience . . . I have autism, and this program has been really helpful to me because it is for people who have disabilities mostly to experience mainstream sports." – Chad, Hamilton HS

UCLA Men's Volleyball Helps The Prime Time Games Reach New Heights

The UCLA Men's Volleyball Team really "set" the tone for an amazing day at the Prime Time Games. The visit was part of the UCLA Athletic Dept. and TPT's ongoing "Mentor the Mentors" program, which gives UCLA student-athletes the opportunity to mentor middle school students who have been given the responsibility of coaching a child with developmental disabilities.

Samson, a seasoned Prime Time Games athlete, had this to say about his time with the UCLA Volleyball players: "they were really tall and I guarded them and did a good job."

Thank you UCLA Volleyball Team for making opening day of our 23rd Season a success!

Team Prime Time Announces Exciting Partnership With Southern California Chapter Of Autism Speaks

On Saturday, April 26th, twenty Varsity Games participants from several Los Angeles high schools took to the stage as part of the opening ceremonies of Walk Now For Autism Speaks. The event marks the beginning of TPT's exciting partnership with the Southern California chapter of Autism Speaks. Together, the two organizations will work to highlight the accomplishments of both groups of students; TPT's at-risk youth and the children with autism and other disabilities they mentor. In so doing, the partnership furthers the mission of Autism Speaks by raising awareness and developing advocates on campus and in the community.
